Each year on 4 February, World Cancer Day empowers all of us across the world to show support, raise our collective voice, take personal action and press our governments to do more. World Cancer Day is the only day on the global health calendar where we can all unite and rally under the one banner of cancer in a positive and inspiring way.

The importance of World Cancer Day

The global cancer epidemic is huge and is set to rise. Currently, 8.2 million people die from cancer worldwide every year, out of which 4 million are premature deaths (aged 30 to 69 years). Urgent action needs to be taken to raise awareness about the disease and to develop practical strategies to address the cancer burden. Global disparities in access to prevention, treatment and palliative care are growing exponentially.

World Cancer Day is the ideal opportunity to spread the word and raise the profile of cancer in people's minds, in the world's media, and on the global health and development agenda.

World Cancer Day is an initiative by the Union for International Cancer Control (UICC). UICC is the leading international non-governmental organisation that unites the cancer community to reduce the global cancer burden, to promote greater equity, and to integrate cancer control into the world health and development agenda.

LITERACY IS NOT A LUXURY; IT'S A RIGHT AND A RESPONSIBILITY

While education may be the most powerful weapon, reading aloud and storytelling are integral building blocks of learning. This is why Nal'ibali, a national reading-for-enjoyment campaign designed to spark children's potential through storytelling and reading, was founded.

For the past seven years, Nal'ibali has been bringing a special story to children to celebrate World Read Aloud Day (WRAD). In the first year (2013), the campaign reached 13,000 children, while last year's story was read to 1,559,730 children in a single day.

On February 5 2020, the target is to read aloud to more than 2-million children.

Annually, Nal'ibali celebrates WRAD to draw attention to the importance of reading aloud to children in their mother tongue. The NGO commissions a new story – best suited for reading aloud to primary school children – and translates it into all 11 official languages. The organisation urges parents, teachers and caregivers to join it in reading aloud to the children in their lives on the same day.

WHY READ ALOUD?

Nal'ibali is built on the simple logic that a well-established culture of reading can be a real game-changer for education in South Africa. Literacy skills are a strong predictor of future academic success in all subjects. Children who regularly read and hear engaging stories, in languages they understand, are well-equipped and motivated to learn to read and write.

READING ALOUD HAS THE FOLLOWING BENEFITS:

- It allows children to experience reading as a satisfying and meaningful activity.
- It motivates them to learn to read for themselves and then to keep reading.
- It shows them how we read and how books work.
- It allows them to enjoy stories that are beyond their current reading ability.
- It develops their imagination, vocabulary and language abilities.
